Lieut. Kloor and Fiancee Break Their Engagement

Romance That Budded With Rescue of Naval Balloonist in Far North Is Ended

By mutual consent Lieutenant Louis A. Kloor Jr., one of the three naval balloonists who were lost in the Hudson Bay country last December, and Alexandra Flowerston, of Rockaway, have broken their engagement. It was admitted yesterday.

Two reasons are given for this. One is that after Kloor and his companions are rescued he and Miss Flowerston discovered that they had thought love was only friendship. The other is that Kloor considers the pay of an officer of his rank inadequate for matrimonial purposes.

A floor was in charge of the navy balloon which started from the Rockaway air station on December 13 last and landed near Moose Factory on Hudson Bay. While he and his two companions, Lieutenant Steven A. Farrell and Lieutenant Walter Hinton, were mushing their arduous way back to civilization, Miss Flowerston's regret for floor turned to love.

On January 28 their engagement was announced. Mrs. Alexander J. Flowerston yesterday admitted that it had been broken.

The Tribune Fresh Air Fund

It's not strange that little Johnny of Avenue A and Susie of Sullivan Street are keen to go to the country these oppressive hot days. Who wouldn't want to get off the grilling streets and into vacation land? But one might guess that Mrs. Country Lady, who entertained Johnny and Susie for a fresh air vacation last summer, would sort of look on having one or the other of them back for another visit this summer as a duty not to be too eagerly sought after. The guess would be wrong—dead wrong. Such a guess overlooks the big fact that "fresh air" makes friends—firm, lasting friends—wherever they go. And these friends demand them back each year.

Wants Same Child Again Here are a couple of sample requests: "Dear Mrs. P.: 'Yes, I received the picture of Barbara and was very much pleased with it, and I meant to have written you before this to thank you for it. But somehow this last week has been a busy one and I hardly know where the time has gone to. 'You tell little Miss Barbara that the picture makes us all think of a certain young lady we saw last summer, who was put her right foot over it and a lot of other things, which I think she will remember. 'Now, as to her coming to see us again this summer, we should very much like to see her, and I am sure she would be only waiting to come again and see us. We would be very glad to see her, and I would meet her in Putnam. Or in case none should come to Putnam even, if you would be willing to let her come to see us, we would be very glad to see her. I would meet her in Putnam, for there is a train which comes through, so that she wouldn't have to change. 'So you can tell the nurse who sends to send the children that if the Tribune will send Barbara to us again we will be very glad to have her and will try to make her happy. 'With love to all, I am sincerely, 'HELEN PUTNAM PERKINS.'"

Big Lot for Little Tessie "Dear Mrs. P.: I suppose you received my postal cards with some of the views of my place. We are all fine and hope you are, too. 'With love to all, I am sincerely, 'HELEN PUTNAM PERKINS.'"

Morning Concerts Begin

Naval War College Seniors To Be Hosts at Training Station Dance Thursday

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

NEWPORT, R. I., July 11.—Many members of the summer colony and particularly the younger set availed themselves of the opportunity today to indulge in what is, because of its infrequency here a novel and exciting form of entertainment, a circus performance. The outfit, which was here just for the day, provided plenty of real interest.

Among those who attended were Craig Drexler Jr. and Laura Biddle, Mrs. Anster Gray and children, Mrs. J. E. A. Clarke and children, Miss Florence Loew, Miss Charlotte Havemeyer, Mrs. Robert and Miss Natalie Willard, Mrs. Charles Moran, Miss Helen Moran, Charles Moran Jr., Miss Suzanne Peterson, Mrs. Charles Oelrichs and daughter, H. O. Havemeyer Jr., and Florence and Frederick Havemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. T. Suffer Tailor and children, Miss Anna Sands, Walter K. and Henry Phelps, Mrs. William Woodward and children, William K. Vanderbilt Jr. and the children of Mrs. William S. Sims.

War College Class to Entertain Members of the colony will attend a reception, tea and dance in honor of the members of the new class at the Naval War College and their wives, to be given Thursday afternoon at the Naval Training Station. The members of the class that will graduate in December are hosts for the affair.

Though the disagreeable weather kept many away from the first of the morning concerts at the Casino to-day, there was an impressive gathering, under the circumstances. These concerts are attended almost regularly by many of the colony, particularly the older people. The Casino grill, from which the concerts on the horseshoe piazza of the grounds can be enjoyed, was opened to-day.

One of the handsomest specimens of an old head in the state has been presented to the Newport Lodge of the Rev. Dr. Francis A. Clark. It will be installed in the new home of the Elks, Mrs. Vincent Astor was among the week-end hosts who gave dinners, as was Mrs. Edward J. Berwind.

Captain Douglas Thaw, Dismisses, commandant of the Naval Training Station, and Mrs. Dismisses will give a dinner for them, followed by a party at the Casino on Monday, July 19. Bishop and Mrs. Darlington will entertain for them on the following day.

C. L. Francis and Bride Expected Other visitors this season will include Mr. and Mrs. Claude Laroche Francis, the former a son of the late Dr. V. Mott Francis. Mr. Francis recently married a widow of great wealth in Rome. It is understood they intend to purchase a summer home in the presence here would probably mean some elaborate entertaining, for recently they gave a dinner party in which a fortune was spent for flowers.

Reilly, of New York, are at the Casino. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stead, of Washington, Mrs. William T. Conn, G. Louis Rousseau and Horace Binner registered at the Casino this morning.

Wanamaker's 84th Year Finds Him an Optimist

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—John Wanamaker began the eighty-fourth year of his life by getting to his desk at 8:15 this morning.

He began it also with lauding President Harding "as the greatest business man in the United States."

And he began it with a desk heaped high with mail, all of which he read and telegrams and letters and presents bearing to him the good wishes of hundreds of friends and employees.

Aside of continual interruptions of visitors, persons calling on the telephone and the reception of other messages of congratulation, there was no ceremony to the day.

But at 3 o'clock in the afternoon a little space on the clock had been set aside for a meeting of the finance committee of the Board of Education. Mr. Wanamaker is chairman of the committee and the meeting was held in his office. There was little business before the committee and much of the time was taken up by Mr. Wanamaker in showing his birthday remembrances. The business day closed with an interview.

"What do you think of the business outlook?" Mr. Wanamaker was asked. "I think," he said, as he perched himself in his high-backed chair, "that you one thing about business. The greatest business men in the United States to-day is the President."

Home Brew Soda, Threat Of 2,000 Bronx Children

The 2,000 youngsters who marched on Third Avenue in the Bronx last Saturday, carrying the slogan "Down with ice cream and soda water prices," yesterday took their trouble to Borough President Henry Bruckner. Mrs. Anna Grant, of 885 Brook Avenue, appeared as their spokesman, and when President Bruckner declared he could do nothing to defate the prices complained of, he said:

"We will appeal en masse to the soda water dealers who gouge the children and mothers for soda water. If necessary, we'll start out on home brew soda plants and we'll put on a real boycott."

President Bruckner found himself in an embarrassing position. He is head of one of the largest soda water producing concerns in the Bronx.

"I charge dealers 12 cents a bottle for soda water," President Bruckner explained. "On this I pay the war tax. If any dealer charges you war tax he is getting extra revenue, but I am powerless to act."

"What can a poor Borough President do if Mayor Hylan can't stop the evil?" he queried.

In response Mrs. Grant announced that another parade would be held, in which the mothers will join with their children, to protest against the high cost of thirst quenchers.
